The Racket Store is headquarters for the finest cigars, either wholesale or retail.

P. R. Weatherford & Co. are exclusive agents for the celebrated Club House flour, the king of flour.

Navajo blankets, curios and photographs of Grand Canyon and other points of interest can be had at the Racket Store.

Fire Insurance—The Arizona Central Bank represents a number of the largest American and English companies.

M. J. Riordan, the councilman from Coconino county, left for Phoenix Wednesday to remain until after the session of the legislature.

J. W. Weatherford is making a number of improvements in the Hotel Weatherford. Among them he is fitting up four additional rooms in the basement.

Arthur Anderson, son of Mrs. T. F. McMillan, entertained his fellow students of the Northern Normal on Saturday evening at the Bank Hotel, it being his nineteenth birthday.

Henry Asbil, who held up the station agent at Goddard, Yavapai county, last fall, was captured here by Deputy Sheriff Walker last week. Sheriff Munds came up from Prescott Sunday and took the man back. The prisoner admitted his identity.

The Santa Fe Pacific railroad are making arrangements to raise Williams' reservoir ten feet higher. The work will require the widening and strengthening of the present reservoir, and it will require several months to complete it, at a cost of several thousand dollars.

J. S. Lukens has closed his dancing classes. The classes were successful, both to the teacher and his pupils. Mr. Lukens, besides being a capable and thorough instructor in the art of dancing, is an honest, conscientious gentleman, and the best wishes of his patrons here go with him wherever he may locate.

The Williams smelter was sold at sheriff's sale on Monday on a judgment of the district court in September in favor of R. R. Coleman in a suit against the Tusayan Development Company. The property was bid in by E. M. Doe, for the creditors, his highest bid being $5,000. The smelter has, we understand, been sold to Yavapai county parties, and will in time be moved to that county.

Born—In Flagstaff, January 12, 1901, to the wife of J. LeBarron, a daughter.

Frank Alexander will have charge of the Racket Store during the absence of G. W. Rhamey.

If in need of school supplies of any kind you can find them at the Racket Store at the lowest prices.

John M. Dohoney returned Thursday from Los Angeles. The climate of Southern Arizona and that of Southern California did not agree with him, and his failing health caused his return to Flagstaff.

F. W. Volz is contemplating building a telephone line from Canyon Diablo to his trading post on the Moqui reservation. The line will be seventy miles long, and when in operation will be a public convenience.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Rhamey left on Thursday's flyer for El Paso, where he will witness the sight of the winter carnival. After the carnival they will go to Colorado for a short visit, returning here about February 1.

Coconino Point, a low range of mountains over near the Little Colorado river, is receiving some attention from prospectors. Mineral has long been known to exist there, but owing to the scarcity of water but little prospecting has been done there.

J. W. Francis is in from the Eastern Star mines this week. He says that the returns from two carloads of ore recently shipped were very gratifying. Eastern capitalists are now after the Eastern Star and adjoining claims, and it may be that a deal will be consummated between the parties.

A. S. Alvord received this week the announcement of the marriage of his sister, Miss Edith, to Mr. Claude Harrison. The wedding occurred at Traverse City, Mich., on January 7, at the residence of the bride's mother. The bride will be remembered by our older residents.

R. H. Jones, editor of the Flagstaff Gem, left for Phoenix to-day. He is assured of appointment to a lucrative position in the legislature which will meet next week. He is fully capable of filling any position to which he may be appointed, and he is endorsed by every Democrat of Coconino county as being a dyed-in-the-wool Bourbon.

Under the auspices of Winslow Lodge, B. P. O. Elks, Rev. Norman Bartlett delivered his celebrated society lecture, "To Hell in a Pullman," at the opera house last Sunday evening, and we hear the warmest praise for the lecture and speaker. Wherever Mr. Bartlett has been heard in the Territory unlimited praise has followed. He is a conscientious student of books, a close observer of men, and has the faculty of embodying his knowledge into the choicest English. This, together with a polished delivery and a pleasing presence make him one of the most entertaining speakers ever in America.

R. R. Coleman of Prescott spent Monday here.

J. E. Jones, district attorney, was in Winslow Thursday.

F. W. Sisson returned Tuesday from a month's stay in California.

On Sunday evening at the Methodist church the pastor will preach a sermon from the text "What must I do to be saved," and during the evening will review the creed of Col. Ingersoll, as it may not be generally known that before he died he wrote and left on record a religious creed.

E. S. Clark returned from Washington, D. C., Sunday. He has been in that city for the past seven weeks working for the advancement of Coconino county interests, and accomplished the purpose of his mission. Mr. Clark believes that there is no hope for the admission of Arizona to statehood at this session of congress.

The strike of the coal miners at Gallup still continues, and should the difficulty between the parties in the controversy not be adjusted in a short time there will be a coal famine which will affect Arizona and California. This section will not suffer for lack of fuel, as but little coal is used here.

Ex-Judge D. H. Pinney spent Monday here. He was associate justice of the supreme court of Arizona for four years, his term expiring in 1887. For a number of years he resided in Chicago, Ill. He has returned to Arizona to live, having property interests in Phoenix. He enjoys a splendid reputation as a judge, is a first-class lawyer and as a citizen he is an honor to any community.

James R. Watson, who died from injuries received in falling from a passenger train while trying to steal a ride, as told in last week's SUN, was buried in the county cemetery by Undertaker Whipple Monday, the relatives of the dead man not being able to pay the expenses of shipping the body to his home in Missouri. Letters from relatives in Oregon, Mo., to Sheriff Johnson state that deceased was 27 years old; that he had been a member of Company B, Fourth Missouri Regiment, and served with that command during the Spanish-American war. He had for several years been a wanderer. He was a married man.

Isaac Aldrich was arrested at Williams last week charged with stealing twenty head of sheep from Jerome butchers and selling them to a Williams butcher. In company with a man named Burke he took the sheep and drove them to Williams where they were sold. Burke returned to Yavapai county and was arrested. Aldrich will have a hearing at Williams today.

The report of killing at Springerville, Apache county, on Sunday last, has reached here. Ed Beeler, ex-sheriff of Apache county, Monte Slaughter and C. D. Perry were at a saloon in that place, drinking and playing cards. A dispute arose, and Slaughter made an attack on Beeler, who emptied the contents of a double-barrelled shotgun into Slaughter, the charge going through him and striking Perry in the shoulder. Both Slaughter and Perry are well-known cattlemen. The report says that Beeler was justified in the killing. The affair is regretted by all good citizens of Apache county.
